DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 0 343 863 in view of Russell et al. US 7,179,854.

5. The European patent document is cited as showing hindered phenolic stabilizers functioning in combination with the claimed sulfur containing stabilizers and phosphite stabilizers, see pages 4-7. The difference between this teaching and the claimed invention is the species of phosphite stabilizer as now claimed is not mentioned. The claimed species of stabilizer is a well known and commercially available stabilizer and has been widely used in stabilizer compositions. The Russell patent shows the claimed phosphite stabilizer being used in combination with the claimed hindered phenolic stabilizer, see column 6 lines 16-25 and the examples. One of ordinary skill would be motivated to use the phosphite species of Russell in the stabilizing compositions of the EP document given the art recognized functionality of the known stabilizer and a reasonable expectation of the resultant properties. There remains now showing of record that rebuts this prima facie case of obviousness.
